PARIS 2024 BOXING UNIT

The Olympic Games Paris 2024 Boxing Competition is organised under the authority of the Paris 2024 Boxing Unit (PBU).

The PBU is an ad-hoc unit established by the International Olympic Committee (IOC) Executive Board with the mandate to organise and ensure the delivery of the Olympic Boxing Qualifying Tournaments and the Boxing Competition at the Olympic Games Paris 2024.

This decision followed the IOC Session's decision to suspend the IOC's recognition of the International Boxing Association (IBA) in June 2019 (the IOC went on to permanently withdraw the IBA's recognition in June 2023), and the announcement in June 2022 that the IBA would not run the Olympic Boxing Qualifying Tournaments and the Boxing Competition at the Olympic Games Paris 2024. The PBU follows in the footsteps of the IOC Boxing Task Force, the similar ad-hoc unit that organised the delivery of the Olympic Boxing Qualifying Tournaments and the Boxing Competition at the Olympic Games Tokyo 2020.

The IOC gave the PBU the mandate to create a clear, just and fair qualification pathway through which boxers could realise their dream of competing at the Olympic Games Paris 2024. To those ends, the PBU sanctioned seven Olympic Boxing Qualifying Tournaments: the boxing competitions at the European Games 2023, the Asian Games 2023, the Pan American Games 2023 and the Pacific Games 2023; the ad-hoc 2023 African Qualifying Tournament in Dakar (SEN); and two World Qualifying Tournaments, held in Busto Arsizio (ITA) and Bangkok (THA) in 2024. For full details of the qualification pathway, see page 23.

The total number of available quota places for the Olympic Games Paris 2024 was 248 in 13 weight classes (seven for men, six for women), with 124 quota places for men and for women – a significant moment for gender equality and an Olympic first for boxing. With the later addition of one extra quota place allocated to the IOC Refugee Olympic Team, the total number of competing boxers has now risen to 249 athletes (125 men, 124 women).

02 BOXING EVENT REGULATIONS

BOXING EVENT REGULATIONS

In line with the mandate granted by the IOC Executive Board to deliver the Olympic Boxing Qualifying Tournaments and the Boxing Competition at the Olympic Games Paris 2024, and considering the importance of focusing on the athletes, the PBU used the Olympic Games Tokyo 2020 Event Regulations, which were enforced at the Olympic Games Tokyo 2020 and its Qualifying Tournaments, as a baseline to develop its regulations for Paris 2024.

In the interest of sporting fairness, the PBU endeavoured to restrict any amendments to those that increase transparency, fairness and credibility while limiting their impact on the actual sport practice for the athletes, thus minimising the impact on athletes' preparation and guaranteeing consistency between Olympic Games.

Important changes in the area of transparency implemented between the Olympic Games Rio 2016 and the Olympic Games Tokyo 2020 by the IOC Boxing Task Force continue to be part of the regulations for the Olympic Games Paris 2024, including the following:

- Scores are publicly displayed at the end of each round, in order to allow boxers and coaches to react accordingly during the bout.

- The Observer position has been removed from the Field of Play, and the Technical Official now evaluates Judges from an isolated room, assisted by a custom-made video adjudication system.
- All five judges' scores are counted (a change from the Olympic Games Rio 2016, when three out of the five scores were randomly selected).

BOXING TECHNICAL OFFICIALS SELECTION PROCESS

One of the PBU's objectives has been to build on the processes and experiences of the Boxing Task Force at the Olympic Games Tokyo 2020 in order to maintain the highest standards and credibility in boxing competitions, particularly with regard to the selection of Referees and Judges (R&Js) for the Olympic Boxing Qualifying Tournaments and the Olympic Games Paris 2024.

Technical Officials Selection

The PBU first contacted all boxing International Technical Officials (including Technical Delegates, International Technical Officials, Referees and Judges) who applied to the Boxing Task Force in 2019/2020 in order to offer them the opportunity to officiate at the Olympic Boxing Qualifying Tournaments and the Boxing Competition at the Olympic Games Paris 2024 – provided they met the selection criteria, which included (but was not limited to) their levels of experience.

All Technical Officials who applied underwent a preliminary background check in order to safeguard the ethical well-being of the events. An education and evaluation scheme (including potential sanctions) was then put in place across the Olympic Qualifying Boxing Tournaments, with the aim of selecting the best Technical Officials for the Olympic Games Paris 2024.

Technical Officials Draw Procedures

Technical Officials were appointed to the seven Olympic Qualifying Boxing Tournaments and the Olympic Games Paris 2024 via random draws. The draws were organised by the PBU before each event, and were observed by an independent auditor. An automated system was developed to digitally manage the draws, thus minimising human interference.

The PBU applied criteria to the pool of eligible individuals and the draw procedures in order to guarantee continental balance, at the same time ensuring that Technical Delegates, Referees and Judges would not officiate at Olympic Boxing Qualifying Tournaments on their own continent. Technical Officials' eligibility for each Draw was heavily influenced their performance levels. This meant that only the best available Technical Officials were entered into the final draw to determine the list of 62 Technical Officials appointed to work at Paris 2024.

Education

All Technical Officials appointed to each Olympic Boxing Qualifying Tournament and to the Olympic Games Paris 2024 were required to complete an online course on the prevention of competition manipulation and the PBU's Code of Conduct, followed by a compulsory test. Referees and Judges (R&Js), R&J Evaluators and Judge Observers were required to complete an additional online course module on specific boxing-related topics included in the Paris 2024 Boxing Unit Event Regulations, also followed by a compulsory test. Before each event, all appointed R&Js attend mandatory seminars which focus on the Paris 2024 Boxing Unit Event Regulations, the PBU's Code of Conduct and the R&J evaluation process, and which also contain practical judging and refereeing sessions via video review.

03 SEEDED BOXERS

OLYMPIC GAMES PARIS 2024 SEEDING SYSTEM

Olympic boxing has traditionally used a seeding system to separate the highest-ranked boxers in their respective weight categories within the tournament's competition brackets. After consulting various stakeholders, the PBU established an ad-hoc working group that included representation from all five continents in order to implement a seeding system for the Olympic Games Paris 2024.

Seeding system principles

- Seeding allocation considered only on-field results and random draws, rather than a cumulative ranking system.
- Seeding allocation considered only those boxers who qualified for the Olympic Games Paris 2024 through the continental qualifying tournaments, as those were the first opportunities for all NOCs to qualify boxers – the European Games 2023, the Asian Games 2023, the Pan American Games 2023, the Pacific Games 2023 and the 2023 ad-hoc African Qualifying Tournament in Dakar (SEN).

- Eight boxers have been seeded in each weight category (Olympic event) for consistency, regardless of the total number of boxers in the weight category.
- All five continental champions and the second-place finishers at the Europe, Asia and Americas Qualifying Tournaments have been seeded.
- Seeding positions among the eight seeded athletes have been assigned through random draws, and should not be interpreted as ranking positions. For clarity: if an athlete has been given seeding position #1, it does not mean they are necessarily understood as being a better boxer than the athlete seeded in position #8.

The seeding draw took place on 27 June 2024. It was conducted by OMEGA in the presence of PBU representatives and National Federations (NFs) with athletes in the draw. Seeded athletes are listed in the following pages of this media guide.

OLYMPIC QUALIFICATION PATHWAY

A total of 1,471 boxers from 172 National Olympic Committees (NOCs), Refugee Athlete Scholarship Holders and Individual Neutral Athletes (AINs) took part in the Boxing Road to Paris qualification pathway, totalling 2,115 bouts across seven Olympic Boxing Qualifying Tournaments between June 2023 and June 2024.

The qualification pathway included the boxing competitions at the European Games 2023, the Asian Games 2023, the Pan American Games 2023 and the Pacific Games 2023; the ad-hoc 2023 African Qualifying Tournament in Dakar (SEN); and two World Qualifying Tournaments, held in Busto Arsizio (ITA) and Bangkok (THA) in 2024.

A total of 239 quota places were awarded at these seven tournaments, with nine Universality Places and one additional place for the IOC Refugee Olympic Team completing the line-up of 249 boxers who will compete in the Paris 2024 Boxing Tournament.

Male boxers will compete in seven weight categories at the Olympic Games Paris 2024, one fewer weight category than at the Olympic Games Tokyo 2020:

- 51kg
- 57kg
- 63.5kg
- 71kg
- 80kg
- 92kg
- +92kg

Female boxers will compete in six weight categories for the first time at an Olympic Games, one more weight category than at the Olympic Games Tokyo 2020:

- 50kg
- 54kg
- 57kg
- 60kg
- 66kg
- 75kg

05 PARIS 2024 BOXING VENUES

PARIS 2024 BOXING VENUES

North Paris Arena

The Paris Nord Villepinte exhibition centre in Seine-Saint-Denis, close to Paris Charles de Gaulle Airport, will be transformed for the Games into a large modular sports facility called the North Paris Arena.

The venue will host the preliminary rounds and the first semi-finals of the boxing events from 27 July to 4 August 2024. It will also host the fencing ranking round of the modern pentathlon and, during the Paralympic Games Paris 2024, the sitting volleyball competition.

The venue is one of the largest congress centres in the country. Designed to accommodate large gatherings, it is the perfect venue for thousands of spectators to witness the Olympic and Paralympic Games Paris 2024 action up close.

The venue is a 300-metre walk from the Parc des Expositions stop on the RER B line.

Stade Roland-Garros

Roland-Garros is a legendary venue. This iconic global tennis arena will write a new chapter in its illustrious history at the Olympic and Paralympic Games Paris 2024, when it will not only host the tennis and wheelchair tennis competitions, but also boxing and sitting volleyball.

The final phases of the boxing tournament, including all gold medal bouts, will take place here from 6 to 10 August 2024.

The venue is accessible via:

- Avenue Foch station: take RER C, then the free Paris 2024 shuttle bus to the venue.
- Porte Dauphine station: take Metro 2 or T3b, then the free Paris 2024 shuttle bus to the venue.
- Porte d'Auteuil station: take Metro 10, followed by a 600-metre walk to the venue.

07 THE HISTORY OF BOXING AT THE OLYMPIC GAMES

THE HISTORY OF BOXING AT THE OLYMPIC GAMES

Boxing is one of the world's most traditional sports – with deep roots in the history of humankind and a strong bond to the Olympic Games.

The sport is believed to have originated in the Sumerian cities at the beginning of the third millennium BC, but evidence of boxing's existence has also been found in the ancient civilisations of Egypt, India, Greece and China.

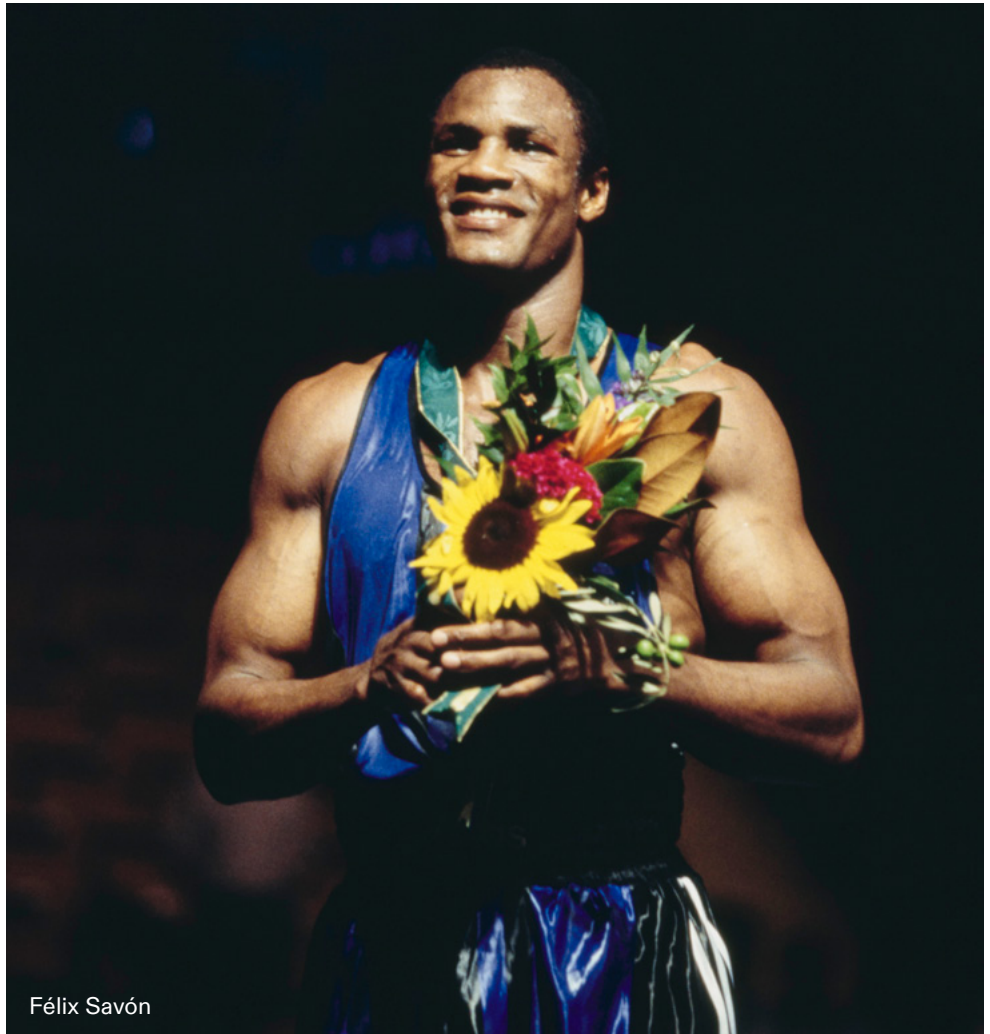

The sport was introduced to the Olympic Games by the ancient Greeks at the 23rd Olympiad in 688 BC, when Onomastus of Smyrna won the first gold medal. At the time, there were no weight classes, time limits, scoring systems or strict rules, and boxers fought with strips of leather wrapped around their fists. On the other hand, honour, respect and fair play were paramount factors.

The sport of boxing was reinvented in the 16th century in England, and the first reported boxing match was held in the United Kingdom in 1681.

Boxing first appeared in the modern Olympic Games at St Louis in 1904, the third games of the modern era, when medals were awarded in seven men's weight classes. Four years later at the Olympic Games London 1908, the sport featured five weight classes. There were no boxing events at the Olympic Games Stockholm 1912 due to a Swedish law that banned the sport. Following World War I, boxing was once again included on the Olympic Games programme at Antwerp 1920, and has featured at every Olympic Games since then.

More than 40 countries secured at least one boxing Olympic title from St Louis 1904 until Tokyo 2020. In the modern Games' history, the sport's most successful nations include the United States of America, Cuba, Great Britain Italy, the Soviet Union, the Russian Federation and Hungary.

Following a historic IOC decision in August 2009, female boxing events were included at the Olympic Games for the first time at London 2012, where 36 women athletes were able to compete in three weight classes: fly (51kg), light (60kg) and middle (75kg). Female athletes' participation in Olympic boxing has continued to increase since that historic decision – and the

Félix Savón

Olympic Games Paris 2024 will reach gender equality with the participation of 125 men and 124 women.

Olympic boxing heroes

The history of boxing at the Olympic Games includes numerous legendary performances and performers. Atop the list is Hungary's southpaw László Papp, who claimed three gold medals: winning the middleweight class at London 1948, then going on to take gold in the light-middleweight division at Helsinki 1952 and Melbourne 1956.

Cuba won its first gold medals through Orlando Martínez and Emilio Correa at the Olympic Games Munich 1972. Cuba is also the homeland of two boxing legends: heavyweight superstars Teófilo Stevenson and Félix Savón, who both repeated Papp's achievement by winning three Olympic titles. Stevenson was crowned Olympic champion in 1972, 1976 and 1980, before Savón took gold in 1992, 1996 and in 2000.

Poland's two-time champion Jerzy Kulej won his first title at Tokyo 1964, then defended his gold at Mexico City 1968. The first Asian double champion was Zou Shiming of China, who won his first title on home turf at Beijing 2008 and followed with a second gold at London 2012. Ukraine's Vasyl Lomachenko has one of the best amateur boxing records in history with only one loss during his whole career – including an unbeaten record at the Olympic Games, with Olympic gold at Beijing 2008 (at the age of 20) and London 2012.

Sena Irie

Great Britain's Nicola Adams won the first ever Olympic gold medal in women's boxing (flyweight) while competing on her home turf at London 2012. The British athlete repeated that achievement four years later in Rio de Janeiro, becoming the first women boxer to win two Olympic titles back-to-back. She was joined by Claressa Shields of the USA, who was only 17 years old when she won her first title at London 2012. She went on to secure her second Olympic gold medal in the middleweight (75kg) category at Rio 2016.

Sena Irie became the first Japanese women to win an Olympic boxing medal, finished atop the podium in the featherweight (57kg) category on her home turf at the Olympic Games Tokyo 2020. Tokyo's Kokugikan Arena was also a successful hunting ground for the Cuban team – they topped the medals standings with four gold medals and one bronze medal, including the back-to-back titles won by Julio César La Cruz and Arlen López, and the comeback of Roniel Iglesias, who secured gold nine years after winning in London.

Nicola Adams

Vasyl Lomachenko

Some of the greatest athletes of all time have showcased their abilities in the Olympic boxing ring, including Floyd Mayweather, Guillermo Rigondeaux, Sugar Ray Leonard and Oscar de la Hoya. Among heavier weight categories, names such as Lennox Lewis, Wladimir Klitschko, George Foreman and Anthony Joshua jump to mind as famous gold medallists. However, no one tops the fame of Muhammad Ali, who (as Cassius Clay) won gold at Rome 1960 before going on to become one of the most iconic figures inside and outside the world of sport.
