2. What is particular relevance of the activity to the objectives and programs of UNESCO?

The First International Festival of Handicrafters held in Kokand on September 10-15, 2019 by the initiative of the H.E. Shavkat Mirziyoev, President of the Republic of Uzbekistan. The event has demonstrated safeguarding of traditional handicrafts traditions, preserving and developing cultural diversity through supporting creativity.

The Festival was aimed to promote the handicraft traditions, which are an invaluable source to motivate youth's interest to the safeguarding of heritage and support the diversity of craftsmanship.

The objectives of the Festival were in line with provisions of the integrated promotion and practical implementation of 2003 UNESCO's Convention through public-private partnership in preservation of the craftsmanship and its transmission to the future generations. The ancient city of Kokand brought together guests from more than 370 from around 78 countries and around 1,200 local handicrafters. The Festival was opened by H.E. Shavkat Mirziyoev, President of the Republic of Uzbekistan. In this festival participated Mr Jan Hladik, Chief of Cultural Heritage Protection Treaties Unit Culture and Emergencies of UNESCO and Ms. Ghada Hijjawi-Qaddumi, President of Asia Pacific Region of the World Crafts Council.

Within the framework of the festival, International Scientific and Practical Conference “Prospects for Development of Handicraft and Folk Applied Art” was organized during 12-13 September 2019. About 28 foreign scientists from 24 countries and 6 scientists from Uzbekistan were attended International Conference.

Under the following themes were presented best practices of foreign countries and exchanged opinion during the International Conference:

- World practice in the development of traditional art crafts: positive experience and national strategies;
- Traditions of the artistic craft of the medieval East: the origins of craftsmanship and inspiration.

The 24 most talented craftsmen, who were selected in eight nominations by the jury, were awarded with prizes and cash prizes.

The events of the festival were covered by over 400 representatives of local media and 22 foreign journalists.

Various exhibitions of handicrafts, folk art, fine art, and ancient handicraft machines were organized near the square of Khudayarkhan Palace. The production process, feature films and documentaries, books, albums and photographs about folk arts were presented. National clothes demonstrated demonstrations of tightrope walkers, comedians, and folk groups were organized within the framework of the festival.
