FUNDACIÓN INDICRI is a non-profit organization which objectives are to benefit students, professionals and communities, getting them interested in the safeguarding of the natural and cultural heritage of Panama, Ibero-America and the world.

Most of the foundation activities are related to ACAMPADOC DOCUMENTARY SCHOOL and ACAMPADOC INTERNATIONAL FILM FESTIVAL. Both programs have involved and benefited for ten consecutive years hundreds of students, professionals and rural communities who have a vital interest in the rescue of the Intangible Cultural Heritage (ICH) throughout the teaching-learning process of documentary filmmaking.

The organization has facilitated the safeguarding of the ICH through documentary cinema as a sustainable factor that replicates itself in the host town and anywhere its graduated students arrive. Together with this community, the safeguarding of the built heritage is understood as a vital substrate for the existence, safeguarding and sustainability of its intangible cultural heritage.

In 2012, FUNDACION INDICRI established the first international program for film education based outside the capital city of Panama. ACAMPADOC has been the only Panamanian project benefited in 2012 by the IDB Cultural Action Program the Inter-American Development Bank. Since then, FUNDACIÓN INDICRI has had the support of the Ministry of Commerce and Industries of Panama (2013, 2015, 2016, 2017, 2018), the support of the IBERMEDIA Training Program (2014, 2021), the National Secretariat of Science and Technology SENACYT (2016) and the sponsorship of the Ministry of Culture through DICINE the Direction of Cinema of Panama (2019, 2020, 2021).

In 2015, ACAMPADOC has been included on the national report presented to UNESCO's CONVENTION FOR THE SAFEGUARDING OF THE INTANGIBLE CULTURAL HERITAGE in Namibia as the "Most Important Cultural Event in Panama that builds and promotes Intangible Cultural Heritage through documentaries".

Relevant documentation may be submitted, if necessary, under section 8.c below.

Not to exceed 550 words; do not attach additional information

FUNDACIÓN INDICRI safeguarding dynamics get close to the archaeological fact, integrating audiovisual new technologies on the site and promoting the transfer of the knowledge generated to the communities. More than one hundred documentary pieces of approximately six minutes, are part of an invaluable media library of intangible cultural heritage that grows each year and crosses borders exhibiting in other festival venues, public televisions and international markets.

The ACAMPADOC DOCUMENTARY SCHOOL is the only training program in Central America and the Caribbean that links education, creation and promotion of the documentary genre tied to intangible cultural heritage of communities at risk.

The ACAMPADOC DOCUMENTARY SCHOOL includes an international film camp called CAMPAMENTO for young filmmakers and a documentary residence called RESIDENCIA for grown up documentarists with projects in development. Both are immersive programs open for the creative production of documentaries with narrative tools, heritage rescue techniques and new media addressed to directors / producers from Panama and Ibero-America.

The educational programs take place over ten face-to-face sessions in direct contact with the community of La Villa de Los Santos and its surroundings. The theoretical and practical workshops involve individual tutoring with professionals from different areas of the documentary film industry.

Filming in the community of La Villa de Los Santos is installed in our training program as an inherent complement to the work of writing and research, fostering the filmmaker's commitment to the reality they inhabit and their search for their own way to tell. Our students are challenged to put into practice and reinforce their performing techniques and get a local story linked to the theme they are developing in their project.

The ACAMPADOC DOCUMENTARY SCHOOL brings together the national and international documentary film community to reflect on the craft, strategies, and future of non-fiction storytelling while connecting with peers and industry leaders in an intimate setting located four hours from the capital city of Panama.

A complete program of activities includes project presentation sessions, case studies given by tutors, practical workshops on ICH rescue and transmedia documentary, virtual reality, public archeology, production and a public pitch with the community. Also there is space in the program for round tables, colloquia and exchanges open to the public, local music and presentations of ICH, a lot of networking events and master classes that will help the talents involved to enjoy their experience as they advance their projects in a concrete and meaningful way.

6.d. Description of the organization's competence and expertise

Please provide information on the personnel and members of the organization, describe their competence and expertise in the domain of intangible cultural heritage, in particular those that demonstrate the capacities of the organization to provide advisory services to the Committee, and explain how they acquired such competence. Documentation of such competences may be submitted, if necessary, under section 8.c below.

Not to exceed 200 words; do not attach additional information

As a didactic platform in Panama, FUNDACIÓN INDICRI is connected to the region's film schools through the exchange of students and tutors. Over half of all tutors and professionals at either Casa Comal (Guatemala) or ACAMPADOC (Panamá) are EICTV (Cuba) graduates. Others have usually studied abroad in Mexico (CUEC, CCC), Argentina or Europe. The tight social networks formed by Central American film professionals, film festivals and film schools constitute an answer to the lack of state funding or public interest, in that the production of films is enabled by education, mutual empowerment and solidarity in and between creative communities.

The engagement with the annual topic stated by ACAMPADOC and the safeguarding of tangible and intangible heritage does not only extend to the programmed and the produced films, but also to the invitation of the tutors and experts, who are invited based on their relation to the theme. Since 2012, guiding themes have been: heritage and society; gastronomic heritage; river basin memories; peasant agriculture; cultural landscapes at risk; women and work; living community culture; responsible consumption and production; alternatives after confinement and, scheduled for 2021, built heritage as a living heritage scenario.

As every year we decide on a theme, the theoretical framework of the entire festival is marked by a person who will inspire that framework. For example, this year we were looking for someone from South America to complement the understanding of 'Community Living Culture' because indigenous societies like the Andean, Aymara and Quechua understand this concept very well. (Ruiz Figueroa, personal communication, 14 September 2018; own translation).

7. The organization's experiences in cooperating with communities, groups and intangible cultural heritage practitioners

The Committee will evaluate whether NGOs requesting accreditation 'cooperate in a spirit of mutual respect with communities, groups and, where appropriate, individuals that create, practise and transmit intangible cultural heritage' (Criterion D). Please briefly describe such experiences here.

Not to exceed 350 words; do not attach additional information

Documentary and bibliographic references are used by FUNDACIÓN INDICRI as a starting point to ensure the safeguarding of the ICH. The organization has an updated documentary catalog in digital format, available online which includes the documentaries of the ACAMPADOC Generation as well as all the selected contemporary documentaries (national and international) that participate in every annual competition of the film Festival.

Along the year, the organization participates in cine forums called #CINEALRESCATE (cinema to the rescue). This alternative distribution, promotion and exhibition program builds new audiences for Panamanian and international documentaries interested on intangible cultural heritage. #CINEALRESCATE gives community audiences the opportunity to view exclusive documentaries not available on the internet and offers distributors the opportunity to extend the season of their films. The programs are tailored according to specific interest, with appropriate guides used for strategical Q&A's and dynamics with the public after the film screenings. These collaborative guidelines and materials are designed and implemented at no cost in local high schools and universities by its teachers.

FACE-TO-FACE SCREENINGS: The winning films of the ACAMPADOC Festival reach the communities with free open-air screenings in the main square of the seven districts of the province: Las Tablas, Guararé, Macaracas, Pocrí, Pedasí, Tonosí and Los Santos. This annual tour has a partnership with COSMOVISIÓN project – (Ganexa Art University, ganexa.edu.pa), as a technical support during these screenings maintaining all biosafety measures.

Starting from the community and from the aspiring filmmaker, ACAMPADOC's reach extends through the network it creates with every generation of students and tutors who join the festival and experience the intense conviviality of sharing time, space and ideas in its local venue.

The seeds of documentary filmmaking and the preservation and celebration of heritage are sown, one by one, in the minds of the participants, students and tutors alike, who continue to cultivate and grow them after the festival in La Villa de Los Santos ends. With direct and personal links to the region's foremost film schools and through the invitation of regional experts, ACAMPADOC has transcended its function as an exhibition window for documentary films in the region.
