The most important role in the system of safeguarding of intangible heritage should be attributed to ICH bearers - folk artists themselves, members of the Association of Folk Artists familiar with the traditions of their ethnographic region, who mastered their skills through direct intergenerational transmission. They are local leaders, catalysts of regional cultural activity, participate in various ventures, occasional events, initiate many projects, and their activities will greatly contribute to the preservation of folk culture in Poland.

The Association of Folk Artists strengthened its institutional capacity for the preservation of intangible heritage by implementing an elaborate program of workshop, consultation, publishing, documentation and popularisation activities focused on all manifestations of traditional culture, which is the result of both the creative activities of individuals and entire communities.
