INTRODUCTION

The backdrop: Between continued talks of inflation, a U.S. crackdown on TikTok, and of course the fast-approaching 2024 presidential election, there's a lot going on right now in America.

The state of play: Although nearly everyone feels the impacts of the job market on their lives, young people who are switching roles frequently may feel it the strongest. Better understanding how young people are feeling about their employment, the economy, and government actions is important as we inch closer and closer to presidential elections.

So: Generation Lab and CNBC asked hundreds of young people around the country to explain their views on the job market, the economy, the 2024 presidential election, the U.S. economy, inflation concerns, investing and more- the big issues impacting young people in America today.

Based on a survey of 1033 young people, conducted in April-May, 2024.

KEY INSIGHTS

TikTok Politics

- ❖ Republicans in general were more supportive of a TikTok ban, but a majority of all young people want to see the app continue to operate
- ❖ Slightly more young people report wanting to vote for Biden over Trump
- ❖ Slightly more young people think Trump is better for the economy than Biden

The Job & Housing Market

- ❖ Approximately half of young people -even young people with higher incomes - believe the job market could use improvement.
- ❖ Just 6% believe housing is readily available & affordable

Getting Around Town

- ❖ Compared with other countries, American public transport gets a bad rap- but nearly half of young people would grade it a “B” or higher
- ❖ Young Americans are still a car-centric demographic, with less than 25% typically relying on public transportation

1. Only about a third of respondents are working full time

Q: "What is your employment status?"

Overall

2. Over half of respondents have pessimistic views of the job market

Q: "How do you feel about the job market?"

3. Many young people would support higher taxes for high income brackets

Q: "Which statement best describes your view on taxes?"

Overall

4. Housing can be found, but is less than ideal...

Q: “What is your experience with housing availability in the USA? (select all that apply)”

Overall
