

PRIVACY POLICY

Introduction

This document provides information on the legal grounds for personal data processing by United Label, S.A. with its registered seat in Warsaw, Poland (“UL”), data collection and usage and the rights of entities whose UL data is processed – in reference to data gathered via www.unitedlabelgames.com, in accordance with the new provisions on the protection of personal data, in particular Regulation (EU) 2016/679 of the European Parliament and of the Council of April 27, 2016 on the protection of individuals with regard to the processing of personal data and on the free movement of such data; and the repeal of Directive 95/46/EC (“GDPR”).

What is personal data and what it means to process such data

Personal data means data relating to a living individual who is or can be identified from the data. The processing of personal data is in principle any act on personal data, regardless of whether it is done in an automated manner or not, for example, collecting, storing, recording, ordering, modifying, browsing, using, sharing, restricting, deleting or destroying. UL processes personal data for a variety of purposes, while depending on the purpose of use, it can employ different collection methods, legal grounds for processing, use, disclosure and retention periods.

When this Privacy Policy applies

This privacy policy applies to all cases in which UL is the controller and processor of personal data gathered via www.unitedlabelgames.com. This applies to cases where UL processes personal data obtained directly from the data subject. UL carries out its information duties specified in Article 13 of GDPR in accordance with these provisions. Full UL data as the controller of personal data is provided below:

United Label, S.A. with its registered office in Warsaw, ul. Zajęcza 2B, recorded in the Register of Entrepreneurs maintained by the District Court for the Capital City Warsaw in Warsaw, 13th Commercial Division of the National Court Register, under the KRS [National Court Register] No. 0000729621, Tax ID No. 521-382-51-93, REGON [National Business Registry No.] 380064793. The person responsible for the protection of personal data in UL is Mr. Adrian Rosa (contact@unitedlabelgames.com).

What is the method, legal basis and type of personal data processed by UL

UL wants to be transparent in terms of methods, legal basis for the processing of personal data and the purposes for its processing. As a data controller, UL takes care to provide necessary information in this regard to each individual whose personal data is processed and gathered via www.unitedlabelgames.com. A summary of the processing of personal data is provided below.

At the same time, UL emphasizes that whenever it processes personal data based on the legitimate interest of the data controller, it tries to analyze and balance its interest and potential impact on the data subject (whether positive or negative) and the rights of that person under the provisions on personal data protection. UL does not process personal data based on its legitimate interest if it concludes that the impact on the data subject would prevail over UL's interests (then UL may process personal data if it has the appropriate consent or if such processing is required or permitted under applicable law).

Processing personal data of individuals visiting www.unitedlabelgames.com or using electronic services

General information

Individuals visiting www.unitedlabelgames.com or using electronic services provided by UL (hereinafter collectively “Services”) have control over personal data provided by UL. Said websites and services restrict the collection and use of information about their users to the necessary minimum required to provide their services at the desired level, pursuant to Article 18 of the Act of July 18, 2002 on the provision of electronic services (Journal of Laws of 2017, item 1219, as amended).

Cookies

To a limited extent, UL may collect personal data automatically via cookies located on the UL websites. Cookies are small text files saved on a user's computer or other mobile device while using the websites. These files allow using various functions provided on a given website or confirming that a given user has viewed certain content from a given website. Cookies include those that are necessary for the operation of UL websites. The cookies included in this category allow:

- Maintaining the user's session;
- Recording the state of the user's session;
- Enabling Login authorization;
- Saving information allowing for anonymous login of the user;
- Monitoring the availability of services.

Another category of cookies are files that are not necessary to use the Services, but facilitate their use. They are used to allow:

- Remembering the user's choice regarding discontinuing displays of a selected message or displaying it a specified number of times;
- Restoring the user session;
- Checking if the cookie files are working properly;
- Enabling automatic login to the Website (option “remember me”);
- Adjusting the content of the Services to users' preferences;
- Setting the preferred language, font size and other such features to help users work with the application.

UL also uses the services of third parties whose list is constantly changing and which use cookies for the following purposes:

- Monitoring traffic on UL websites and in the Services;
- Collecting anonymous, aggregate statistics that allow UL to understand how users use the UL website and allow continuous improvement of UL Services;
- Determining the number of anonymous UL website users, needed to analyze the use of the Services;
- Controlling the frequency of showing selected content to users;
- Controlling how often users choose a particular service;
- Using a communication tool;
- Integration with the community portal;

As of the date of this document, these entities are as follows:

- Google Analytics (more information and Google Analytics Plugin Blocker on tools.google.com);
- Facebook (more information on www.facebook.com).

Users can manage cookies used by UL or by any other external providers by changing the settings of their web browser. At the same time, UL reserves that after rejecting cookies, some of the features offered by the Services may not work properly and even in some cases it means that the use of the selected product is completely prevented.

Access logs

UL collects information on the use of the Services by its users and their IP addresses based on the analysis of access logs. UL uses this information in diagnosing server-related problems, analyzing possible security breaches and managing the website. The IP address may also be used by UL for statistical purposes, such as collecting and analyzing demographic data of website visitors (e.g., information about the region from which the connection was made). In specific cases, based on the obtained information, general aggregate statistical summaries are prepared, which are disclosed to third parties cooperating with UL. They usually include information about Services viewing. These summaries do not contain any data allowing identification (personally identifiable information) of a given Service user.

UL may be required to disclose information regarding the IP address of a given Service user at the request of authorized state bodies in connection with their proceedings and under relevant provisions of generally applicable law.

Other data

Only if it reasonably necessary UL collects more detailed information about users, such as email addresses or other personal data only when it is really necessary to provide a given service in some cases, e.g., when subscribing to free newsletters, in surveys or in order forms.

Automatic processing of personal data

The information collected by UL in connection with the use of the Services may be processed in an automated manner while it will not cause any legal effects to the individual or similarly materially affect their situation.

Legal basis for processing

When processing personal data in connection with the use of www.unitedlabelgames.com by users, UL may be processing personal data based on the legitimate interest of the data controller, or by requesting consent of the data subject.

Processing of personal data of persons contacting UL in order to obtain information about the offer or to share comments about UL services or products

Apart from the above data from individuals who contact UL in order to obtain information about the offer or share comments regarding services or UL we collect the following personal data: first and last name and email address. These users can send UL an email through the website or a message via social networks. Such messages contain the set username and email address plus any additional information that the user wants to include in the message.

UL strongly asks users not to provide information from specific categories of personal information via websites (such as information on race or ethnic origin, political views, religious or philosophical beliefs, trade union membership, information about physical or mental health, genetic or biometric data, information about sexual life or sexual orientation or about the criminal past). In the event that such information is provided for any reason, UL will deem this express consent to the collection and use of such information as set out herein or as determined at the location where such data was disclosed.

Legal basis for processing

UL collects the above data based on the consent provided by the user directing the request to UL (fulfillment of the request). The provided data can also be processed to fulfill the so-called justified purpose of the data controller.

How long does UL process personal data

The time during which we are allowed to process personal data depends on the legal basis that constitutes a legal condition for the processing of personal data by UL. We are not allowed to process personal data longer than it results from the aforementioned legal basis. Accordingly, we provide the following notification:

- 1) If UL processes personal data based on consent, the processing period continues until the user withdraws the consent;
- 2) If UL processes personal data based on the legitimate interest of the data controller, the processing period lasts until the cessation of the aforementioned interest (e.g., the statute of limitations/expiration of civil claims) or the objections of the data subject concerning continuing such processing where such objection is applicable in accordance with the provisions of generally applicable law;

3) If UL processes personal data because it is necessary due to the applicable law, the periods of data processing for this purpose are defined by these provisions.

When and how we share personal data with third parties

Do we transfer data to third countries

We provide personal data to others only if we are permitted by law. In this case, in the applicable agreement with a third party, we provide security provisions and mechanisms to protect data and to maintain our standards in terms of data protection, confidentiality and security. These types of agreements are called entrustment agreements for the processing of personal data, wherein UL maintains control over how and to what extent the entity to whom UL entrusted the processing of certain categories of personal data processes the data. In view of the above, we indicate that the recipients of personal data that UL processes as personal data controller may be:

- Aforementioned entities processing personal data under agreements for entrusting the processing of personal data (processors);
- Entities providing hosting services for UL;
- Entities implementing marketing, e-mail marketing campaigns or sales campaigns for UL;
- Other UL subcontractors who provide software delivery services, software or hardware maintenance services used by UL and suppliers of goods we use;
- Entities providing survey services, including NPS (customer satisfaction research);
- Debt collection agencies (provided that personal data is provided only to the extent that it is really necessary to achieve a given goal);
- Auditors and statutory auditors, legal and tax advisers;
- Authorities supervising compliance with law, regulatory authorities and other public administration bodies (in the latter two cases, we provide data only if and to the extent that it is actually necessary and required by mandatory provisions of law and in a manner consistent with these regulations).

UL is part of the CI Games Capital group, therefore, some personal data may be transferred to other companies from the CI Games Group. In terms of personal data subject to EU law, we emphasize that cross-border transfer may apply to countries that are not members of the European Economic Area (“EEA”) and countries that do not have laws that specifically define personal data protection. We take steps to ensure that all personal data are protected and that the transfer of personal data outside the EEA is lawful. In the event of transferring personal data outside the EEA to a country which, according to the European Commission, does not ensure an adequate level of personal data protection, transfer takes place only on the basis of an agreement that takes into account EU requirements for the transfer of personal data outside the EEA.

What are the rights of data subjects and how they are implemented

Natural persons have legal provisions regarding their personal data, and UL as the data controller is responsible for the implementation of these rights in accordance with the applicable provisions of generally applicable law. For any questions or requests regarding the scope and implementation of rights and in order to contact us to exercise a certain right in the field of personal data protection, please contact us at the following email address: contact@unitedlabelgames.com. UL reserves the right to exercise the following rights after successfully verifying the identity of the person applying for the action.

Access to personal data

Individuals have the right to access data that UL retains as a data controller. This right can be exercised by sending an email to: contact@unitedlabelgames.com.

Changing personal data

Changes, including updates of personal data processed by UL, may be made by sending an email to the following email address: contact@unitedlabelgames.com or by contacting UL through the appropriate registration page or application in which the registration was made, or via traditional mail.

Withdrawing consent

If personal data is processed based on consent, individuals have the right to withdraw this consent at any time. UL notifies about this right almost always during the collection of consents and allows withdrawal of consent in the way it was granted. If UL did not provide another address or contact number to withdraw your consent, please send an email to contact@unitedlabelgames.com.

The right to limit the processing or object to the processing of personal data

Individuals have the right to limit the processing or object to the processing of their personal data at any time, due to their special situation, unless the processing is required in accordance with the generally applicable provisions of law.

An individual may object to the processing of their personal data when:

The processing of personal data takes place on the basis of a legitimate interest or for statistical purposes and the objection is justified by his or her particular situation;

Personal data is processed for direct marketing purposes, including profiling for this purpose.

On the other hand, in relation to a request to limit processing, UL points out that the request also applies when an individual notices that their data is incorrect. In this case, the individual can request a restriction to the processing of personal data for a period allowing UL to check the correctness of this data.

Other rights: the right to erasure of data and the right to data portability

If you intend to use any of these rights, please send an email to contact@unitedlabelgames.com.

The right to erase data may be used, for example, when the data of an individual is no longer necessary for the purposes for which it were collected by UL or when an individual withdraws their consent to data processing by UL and also in the case when an individual objects to the processing of their data or when their data will be processed unlawfully. The data should also be deleted in order to comply with the obligation under applicable law.

The right to data portability is granted when the processing of a person's data takes place based on the consent of an individual or the contract concluded with them and when such processing is carried out automatically.

Other questions, doubts and complaints

If you have any questions or doubts regarding the content of this Privacy Policy or the manner in which UL processes personal data, or complaints regarding these matters (regardless of the fact that UL expresses its deep hope that there will be no need to file such complaints), please send us an email with details of the complaint to contact@unitedlabelgames.com. Any complaints received will be considered by UL, and the person who submits the question, doubt or complaint will receive a response from UL.

Persons whose personal data are processed by UL may also file a complaint to the supervisory authority, which is currently the President of the Office for Personal Data Protection (address: Urząd Ochrony Danych Osobowych [Office for Personal Data Protection], ul. Stawki 2, 00-193 Warsaw; <https://uodo.gov.pl/pl/p/kontakt>).

Can this Privacy Policy be changed and if so, when

We are committed to regularly review this Privacy Policy and change it when it is necessary or desirable due to new generally applicable law, new guidelines of bodies responsible for supervising the processes of personal data protection, best practices applied in the area of personal data protection (i.e., codes of good practice; if UL will be bound by such codes, we will let you know). We also reserve the right to change this Privacy Policy in the event of changes in technology with which we process personal data (if the change affects the wording of this document) and in the event of changes in methods, purposes or legal grounds for personal data processing by UL.
